The polls will be open the usual hours at all the voting places in Medina County tomorrow, August 25, in a state-wide election. In addition to voting on four proposed Constitutional Amendments—on which every qualified voter should register his wishes by casting his ballot—the voters of Medina County are to also decide on whether or not all classes of farm live stock may or may not be permitted to run at large. The polls will be open for Voting Precinct No. 16, South Hondo, at the fire station.

COMMISSIONERS TRANSACT IM-PORTANT BUSINESS IN SPECIAL SESSION

The Commissioners' Court of Medina County met in a special session at 10 A. M. Monday, August 20th, at which time important business matters were transacted. All members of the Court were present.

The tax levy for various Medina County Common School Districts for the year 1945-46 was made as follows:

District	No.	Tax	Bond
Castroville	1		20c
Rio Medina	2	20c
LaCoste	3	50c	40c
Upper Quihi	5	30c
Fly	6	25c
Longview	7	25c
Shook	10	50c
Biry	11	50c
Black Creek	12	50c
Pearson	14	25c
Yancey	16	65c	25c
Leinweber	18	25c
Maverick	19	50c
Peach Tree	23	10c
Live Oak	25	30c
Rothe	27	20c
New Fountain	30	50c
Vanderburg	31	50c
Verdina	32	50c
Enterprise	34	50c
Co. Line	43	20c

The above tax levy as approved by the Court was presented by C. F.
Schweers, Supt. of Public Instruction of Medina County, after being agreed on by the Common School Trustees of the county at a meeting in June. The purpose of the tax levy for the year 1945-46 is to supplement the State school funds apportioned to the respective districts.

Court considered the application of T. J. Grimsinger and R. M. Cham-pman for the filing of a plat and map known as West End Addition to the town of Hondo. After due consideration the Court voted unanimously to order that the same be placed on record in the map and plat files of the County Clerk's office.

The Court set the tax levy of the various funds and departments for the year 1946 as follows: (On the $100.00 valuation of all taxable property in Medina County)

25c for the General Fund;
15c for the Road and Bridge
Fund;

50c for the Countywide Road
Bond Fund;

5c for the County Health Unit;
5c for the Improvement Fund.

The Court conducted a public hearing on the County Budget for the year 1946. One citizen appeared at the hearing and made the request that the 15c road and bridge tax be reduced to 14c for the year 1946. No other citizens appearing before the Court at its hearing, the Court proceeded to act on the suggested tax reduction, and when called for on a vote by the County Judge, Commissioners Bippert, Britsch, Tondre and Bowman voted against the suggested reduction;
none voted in favor of the reduction.

The Court then adopted the County Budget as prepared by the County Judge for the year 1946 and it was so ordered.

There came to be heard the matter of collection of delinquent State and County taxes of Medina County property owners, as repeatedly urged by the Office of the Comptroller of Public Accounts in Austin. Motion was made, seconded and upon vote unanimously carried that the Medina County Tax Assessor-Collector be instructed to mail notices to all taxpayers who are delinquent and whose address is known, that unless their delinquent taxes be paid within sixty days from September 1st, 1945, the County will instruct its attorney to enter suit therefor. All property owners of the county whose taxes are delinquent and whose address is unknown are to be listed by the Tax Assessor and said list of names delivered to the Commissioners' Court at the next regular meeting of the Court, when instructions will be given by the Court to the County Attorney to enter suit for taxes against such property owners whose address is not known.

Motion made by Commissioner
Tondre, seconded by Commissioner
Britsch, and upon vote unanimously carried, that the voting place in Election Precinct No. 7, D'Hanis, be changed from the Rothe & Koch building on North Front Street to the Arnold Finger building on Lindsay Avenue and that notice of such change be made known to the voters of Election Precinct No. 7, by having same printed in the Hondo Anvil Herald.

Court then recessed subject to call
by County Judge Rothe.

GRID PRACTICE IN SECOND WEEK

The Hondo Army Air Field Comets entered their second week of grid practice long on ends, centers and enthusiasm, and short on backs, tackles, guards and reserves.

Coach Bob Coe is presently grinding into condition a squad of 40 team candidates, most of whom are "likely prospects," according to the California mentor. Half of 20 men aiming for end slots are being shifted over to other line and backfield positions to ease Coe's shortage in those departments.

In lanky Otto Schnellbacher, 22-year-old Sublette, Kans., end, the Comets have a player with considerable experience and poise. The 180 pound, 6'2" Schnellbacher lettered four years at Sublette high school. He was named captain of the mythical All-State Kansas high school eleven his last season. The Comet end played one year of freshman ball at Kansas U. A varsity sparkplug the following year, he won honorable mention All-American honors. Lt. Schnellbacher is a flight engineer instructor at the AAF Flight Engineer school.

A strong contender for the Comets' pivot spot is 215-lb. Lloyd F.
Earl. Lt. Earl, 22, is a physical training instructor. He was an All-State center at West Orange high,
N. J., where he lettered three years.
The big center played frosh ball for Penn State, and served three months
with the New York Giants.

Capt. Sam Laskin, 180-pound back looks good in the Comets' ground-gaining department. Laskin, 25, was All-City back at East High, Youngstown, O. He played one year of freshman and a half-year of varsity for Ohio State. He is a returned combat pilot.

Back Bill Huston remains a steady mainstay in the Hondo backfield. The 185-pound alumni of the 1944 squad, former Champaign, Ill.,
All-Conference high school performer and Illinois U. freshman star, is a 10-second man in track. His specialty is line plunging. This season Huston also shows promise in the passing department.

Another up-and-coming Hondo back is Lt. R. Waggoner, 25-year-old physical training instructor who scales at 190 pounds. Waggoner played two years at Brady high, Brady, Tex., earning All-District honors. He was an All-State back during two years of play with San Antonio junior college.

Another ex-college performer is Flight Officer Joe Bushek. He was an All-Scholastic guard at St. Joseph's Prep, Philadelphia, Pa., and won one letter each at Villanova, Pa., and Penn State. Bushek weighs 190 pounds.

Lt. E. Kaczorowski, 190-pound tackle, has a gridiron background of four years All-High at East High, Buffalo, N. Y., and three letters from Columbia U.

Center Ernst Glauner, 200-pounds, is an alumnus of the 1944 Comet squad. He was an All-City linesman while playing for Harding high, St.
Paul, Minn.

Another seasoned performer is R.
E. Jenkins, 190 pound back who has been playing with the baseball team as catcher. Jenkins was co-captain and lettered four years at Juniata college, Huntingdon, Pa.

Guard Lt. Timothy Murnane, 180-pounds, was named All-State captain during his high school career at Bulkeley high, Hartford, Conn. He won two letters at Catholic U.,
Washington, D. C.

Chief Warrant Officer D. L. Winn,
185-pound back, earned an All-State berth during four years with Brazil high, Brazil, Ind.

Flight Officer R. Bezdichek, a guard, was captain of his high school team at Le Center, Minn., where he won four letters, and won one college letter at St. Thomas, St. Paul, Minn. He weighs 185 pounds.

F/O F. R. Brumfield, 200-pound center, was a four-year letterman at Duval high, Griffithsville, W. Va., and captain of the club in 1940.

Lt. L. P. Earney, 192-pound back, lettered four years at St. Felix high,

MERCURY RISES; FIREMEN
HAVE BUSY WEEK

The highest temperature for Hondo for the summer was recorded Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 17th, 18th and 19th, at 105 degrees, according to Judge H. E. Haass, local
U. S. Weather Bureau observer.
Light showers over the immediate section, however, have somewhat lowered the temperature, and as we go to press Thursday a cloudy sky holds promise for a much-needed rain.

With the soaring mercury and lots and pastures covered with dry grass, there has been an untoward number of fires the past week with a heavy demand made on the services of the Hondo Fire Department.

Fire originating from an unknown
source on the railroad right-of-way just east of Dunlay on Thursday of last week spread into Wm. H.
Schmidt's pasture and, although it was a still day with little wind to fan the flames, it took heroic work on the part of Mr. Schmidt and several neighbors including the Section foreman and his force to keep the fire away from his corn field, his apiary and his home. Their efforts on Thursday stopped the spread of the flames, but again on Friday sparks from burning timber kindled the grass and the fire had to be fought over again. In all Mr.
Schmidt had about 75 acres of grass burned.

A barn on the farm of Mrs. Geo.
Bohnfalk below Hondo was burned to the ground between one and two o'clock Saturday afternoon, the building igniting from a fire which started at the roadside nearby. A passerby discovered the flames but by the time help of the neighbors was called for the structure was ablaze. However, they prevented further spreading of the fire to adjacent fodder stacks, chicken houses and the dwelling. The barn was not insured; it and its contents were a total loss. The crop of corn was sold and recently had been removed from the barn.

Three grass fires in as many days gave the fire boys a run, two being about 40 minutes apart. Saturday about 1 P. M. a fire started in a vacant lot in back of the F. J. Leinweber home. Monday afternoon grass fires broke out in vacant lots in back of the R. L. Kollman residence and on the north side of town near the old Weynand home.
Again the fire department was called Tuesday about 11:30 A. M. to the cottage at the home of Mrs. Ed.
Cameron. Very little damage was done.

MRS. HARLEE TO GET LOCAL RENTAL PROBLEMS

Rental problems of this area may now be taken to Mrs. Billie V. Harlee, who will have office space in the War Price and Rationing Board headquarters in Hondo, according to an announcement received today from R. A. McNeas, San Antonio Defense Rental Area Director.

The board office in Hondo is in the courthouse. Mrs. Harlee will be supplied with all necessary Rent Control forms and will answer questions and handle registrations of rental property, McNeas said.

Heretofore, people from this area had to take their rent questions and problems to the San Antonio Area
Rent Office in the Transit Tower,
San Antonio.

"With Mrs. Harlee serving as our representative, it will be much more convenient for people in Hondo and vicinity to obtain assistance on any matter pertaining to Rent Control," the area rent director explained.

A representative of the San Antonio Area Rent Office will spend Wednesday, Sept. 5, in the Hondo War Price and Rationing Board office, to assist landlords and tenants in any manner possible, McNeas added.

A. A. Murrell is chairman of the board in Medina County, and is generously donating space for Mrs.
Harlee's operations.

HONDO PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPT. 10

The public schools of Hondo will open Monday, September 10th, according to Mr. H. C. Richards, Superintendent.

Registration for the high school students will be held Friday, Sept.
7. All juniors and seniors will be expected to register in the morning, beginning at 9:00 a. m. Sophomores and freshmen will register in the afternoon, beginning at 1:00 p. m.
Those who are unable to register on this date may register Saturday,
Sept. 8, beginning at 2:00 p. m.

Students in all elementary schools will register the same day that school starts, Sept. 10, at which time
all will report to their home rooms.

NOTICE OF HEARING ON BUDGET

The board of trustees of the Hondo Independent School District will meet on Thursday, August 30, 1945, at 8:30 P. M., for the purpose of adopting the budget for said district for 1945-46. Any taxpayer wishing to do so is invited to attend the meeting.

ATTENTION, VOTERS

A Correction

In attempting to correct a typographic error in the second line of the last paragraph of A Voter's article, Attention, Voters, in last week's paper, the first line was inadvertently pulled, the correction line inserted in its place and the line containing the error left in. We regret the blunder since it completely destroyed the sense of the paragraph.

The paragraph should have read:
No. 5. Vote against the Stock Law, which is the last item on the ballot, and keep this county free from socialism. If the former stock law was invalid, then those fined under it must have their fines returned. Vote against it and don't let anyone make a mockery out of your vote.

MEMORIAL PROPOSED

To The Citizens of Medina County:

The people of Medina County have proven beyond a doubt in the past wars that their patriotism and Americanism were equal to that of any group of people in the way of obligations and have had in our midst one of the world's largest flying fields.

But the things we do, have done or the things we owe a lot to, we forget all too soon. That has happened before and it may happen again. I refer to the memory of our heroes who gave their lives that we might live peaceful and happy lives.

How would a memorial of some sort appeal to you? Bandera, with a population of less than that of Hondo, has its tourist attractions, a museum and erected a monument in the memory of its boys of the last war and no doubt will do something in that direction this time.

No plan or proposal of any sort has yet been submitted by any one as far as I know. I believe that a plan for the erection of a memorial of some sort should be sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars but I would like to see the reaction of the general public and their opinion on the matter before beginning anything concrete.

Everything depends on the spirit of the people and the amount of funds that could be subscribed for such a memorial. If funds would permit, I have in mind a stone structure to coincide with our courthouse, large enough to house a relic, a history of wars in framed pictures of our war leaders, names of all veterans and the names inscribed of those who died so valiantly for their country.

Are we still patriotic? Let's not forget and the longer we wait after the war, the less enthusiastic we become. Now is the time. Every one has seen good prices and high salaries. If every man, woman or child of earning capacity and who has at heart the memory of the boys would subscribe for this proposal, I believe we could build the memorial that I described or perhaps if only some monument or statue could be erected in front of the courthouse or in the park in South Hondo.

I am merely making these suggestions. If you approve or disapprove of my proposal or if there are different plans or suggestions, I would very much like to hear from you.

E. S. RIEBER.

ANSWERS for Victory Gardeners

What About Worms?

Worms can be a real problem. There are many kinds and varieties of them but all worms are alike in one respect—they live only to eat and grow. As a result, worms take many times their weight in garden stuff. Even worse is the messy trail they leave behind with corn ears spoiled, cabbage heads damaged, and many products, unpalatable from their chewing. The worst damage from worms, however, comes from the destruction of plant foliage, thus slowing up growth and reducing the yield of the crop or even destroying it entirely. Any worm in your garden is an enemy—go after him.

Where Do Worms Come From?

When you see millers fluttering about the garden, you may think the sight beautiful, but watch out for worms a little later. The millers are there to lay eggs. Some times the intermediate forms are not true worms in the scientific sense but the damage is the same and the treatment is also the same. They must be sprayed or dusted with an effective insecticide.

How Can Cabbage Worms Be Killed With The Least Trouble?

The best way to protect the garden from cabbage worms is by spraying a stomach poison mixed with water on the growing plants. This leaves a coating of poison over the cabbage head that is sure death to the worms. The cheapest and most efficient material for such poisoning is common lead arsenate to be had at any store selling garden supplies. If you are spraying with Black Leaf 40 for aphids on cabbage, you will control the cabbage worm also.

What Are the Reddish Brown Fat Worms I Find on My Potato Plants?

These are the beginning stages of the potato bug or Colorado potato beetle. They are heavy eaters trying to grow into full grown potato beetles just as soon as they can. Lead arsenate sprayed on the leaves is sufficiently poisonous to destroy them within a very few minutes. Here again if you are spraying for potato aphid with Black Leaf 40, you will get very good control of the potato beetle at the same time for the contact spray is effective against them in the younger stages.

Are Sprays Dangerous to People?

There is no danger from insecticide poisoning if a few simple rules are followed. Products which have been sprayed with lead arsenate should not be eaten until the rains have had a chance to wash off the material. In case of a dry year when such washing action is slow, careful washing during preparation for the table is necessary. In other words, no one should eat 'lead arsenate' and if it is not 'weathered' off the garden vegetables or fruit, then it should be washed off at the kitchen sink. Washing apples after they are picked is standard practice in some sections.

Black Leaf 40 is not a problem. It is a product which evaporates and within a day or two after it is applied no harm whatever can come from vegetables which have been sprayed by it. Many gardeners use Black Leaf 40 exclusively as they approach the season when they expect to harvest the product of the garden.

INSURANCE BENEFITS RECEIVED

More than $560,284.00 is being paid annually to 3,003 men, women, and children in Atascosa, Bandera, Bexar, Comal, DeWitt, Dimmitt, Edwards, Frio, Gonzales, Guadalupe, Karnes, Kerr, Kendall, Kinney, LaSalle, Lavaca, Live Oak, McMullen, Maverick, Medina, Real, Uvalde, Val Verde, Wilson, and Zavala counties under the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program, Jesse C. Carter said today.

Beneficiaries include not only workers 65 and over with their wives 65 and over, but also aged widows, widow with children under 18, orphaned children, and dependent parents.

There are three things that every worker and every member of his family should know about the old-age and survivors insurance program:

1. If a worker has reached retirement age—65 or over—and has been working, he should contact the Social Security Board field office to see if he has a benefit coming to him.
2. If a worker dies—and has been working in a job covered by Social Security—the chances are that his family has something coming.
3. The payments do not come automatically. They have to be applied for. The place to write is the office of the Social Security Board at 501 Maverick Building, San Antonio, Texas.

Songs for a Better World

We were sitting around the embers of Ed Crumple's barbecue last Saturday night, finishing our beer and hot dogs, while Ed strummed the guitar... picking out old, friendly songs.

Soon everyone was singing. The harmony wasn't too good... but the spirit was—a spirit of friendship and good humor.

And it made me think how music—music of the people—overcomes barriers of prejudice and intolerance. A Yankee folksong or an English carol or a Southern melody—they all speak a common language of the heart... bind folks together... help us forget our grudges.

From where I sit, music can help to make the whole world kin. Maybe we ought to have a lot more of it... informal sings around the fire, and in the home. And it's sure true that a mellow glass of beer fits into the picture. It just naturally goes with that kind of music.

5 Good Country Tricks for Saving More Used Fats

THIS year our domestic supply of fats and oils will be approximately one and one-half billion pounds less than last year. Right now, we are facing our worst fat shortage since the war began. To make up for this staggering loss, the government is depending on the women of America—and particularly women on farms and in smaller cities.

Every spoonful, every drop of fat is needed to help make battlefield and homefront essentials. So roll up your sleeves and do an all-out job, won't you? Clip this checklist and pin it up in your kitchen as a reminder.

1. FRIED SALT PORK—with milk gravy. Salt pork yields so much grease, you won't need it all for gravy. Pour the rest into the salvage can.
2. DEEP FAT FRYING—use the fat over and over, but when it's too dark and smelly to use any more, don't forget Uncle Sam wants it!
3. ROASTS AND CHOPS—save all trimmings (scraps from plates, too.) Keep them in a small bowl; once a week melt them down.
4. SAUSAGES—they're better if you parboil them first. Skim the fat off the cooking water—scrape the fat from the frying pan.
5. CHICKEN SOUP—chill it before you use it. Scoop off the hardened grease (soup tastes better, too!)

When the salvage can is full, take it to your butcher promptly. He will give you 2 red points and up to 4c for every pound of used fat you turn in.

100,000,000 More Pounds of Used Fats Are Needed This Year

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

One thing our U. S. A. could do, and pronto, is to sit down and cope out where we will be coming out 10 years hence, if we keep on putting in more of our time and money taking care of folks in foreign countries versus our own folks here in Montana and Kentucky and South Carolina and 45 other states.

It is okay to be a Christian and think about your neighbor, and help if you can, but it is not being a Christian or having horse-sense to neglect your own family and let it hushle for itself—or go hungry.

We may be nearer the bottom of the barrel than we think. And when we do hit bottom, what country will offer us a loan, or present us a gift? Once we are on our uppers, other nations will give us the cold shoulder—which is human nature. Why didn't the guy, they will say, have some gumption when he was flush versus acting like his sock was a mile deep, and had no bottom.

When one foreign country—except Finland—sends us a check and pays up, it is gonna make a man bitin' a mountain lion, look puny and sick—as news.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

GLORIFIED OFFICIALISM DANGEROUS

There is a school of thought in the United States that seems to belittle private enterprise as something to make the rich richer and the poor poorer. Many school children have been influenced to believe that any activity not controlled by the government is a device of the devil to make a profit for the few at the expense of the many.

This is the philosophy of state socialism that enabled political leaders to build a totalitarian government in Germany which made the individual subservient to the state. The fate of Germany is fair warning to our nation of the danger that lurks in glorified officialism and the crushing of free enterprise by government.

The roads leading to total government are so devious that the average citizen often claps his hands and shouts for political policies which ultimately will strangle his own freedom. And this brings up the point of "What is private enterprise?" which government in business and bureaucratic monopolies destroy.

Private enterprise starts in the home—the wife buying the food when and where she can get the best bargain; buying clothes in the same manner; using her own judgment as to what is best for her family. Private enterprise in the home may be efficient or inefficient, but nevertheless it represents freedom of action as contrasted with peacetime government planning for the individual.

Private enterprise is nowhere more actively represented than in farming. And yet today farming is almost totally controlled by big government. After many years of political planning of food production, the Associated Press dispatches of April 30 contained an ominous warning. They said half of the hog lots in the Chicago stockyards closed on that date for an indefinite period, as the current supply of animals was but 15 per cent of the yard capacity and was the lowest on record for a spring season. This item took not over a dozen lines of space and was unnoticed by the great majority of people. And yet millions of persons who failed to notice the item and its implication are struggling to get a bite of bacon or ham which have practically disappeared from the American scene.

It is high time that the American people opened their eyes to the fact that a political philosophy which belittles private enterprise and aggrandizes government in business, and which gradually causes school children to believe that only government agencies can plan properly for all the people, and that there is something basically wrong in the individual operating a business for a profit, will ultimately destroy the independence of a nation and make its people the helpless subjects of government monopolies. While Germany is fresh in our minds, it is well for us to consider whether we wish to follow further the totalitarian ideas which destroyed all semblance of freedom in that nation.—Industrial News Review.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS TO BE VOTED ON AUG. 25

Below is a brief resume of the proposed amendments to the Texas constitution to be voted on August 25, 1945, and is given herein as each amendment will appear on your ballot.

Amendment No. 1.

This amendment provides that during the time the United States is engaged in fighting a war, or within one year after the close of the calendar year in which said war is terminated, no person, who at the time of holding any election in this State authorized by law, or who, within eighteen months immediately prior to the time of holding any such election was, a member of the Armed Forces of the United States or of the Armed Force Reserve or the United States Maritime Service or the United States Merchant Marine, is required to pay a poll tax, or to hold a receipt for the payment of any poll tax assessed against him, in order to vote at any election. The foregoing amendment, if adopted, does not give any person the right to vote who is a member of the regular establishment of the United States Army, Navy or Marine Corps.

Amendment No. 2.
This amendment provides that members of the Legislature shall receive $10.00 per day during their tenure of office, and in addition each member shall receive not to exceed $2.50 for each twenty-five miles as mileage in going to and returning from the seat of government for sessions of the Legislature.

Amendment No. 3.
This amendment provides that the Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and eight Associate Justices, any five of whom shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of five shall be necessary to a decision of a case. Our present Court consists of three Justices and a Commission of Appeals composed of six Judges who now assist the Supreme Court without the power to vote and this amendment, if adopted, will make the six Commissioners full members of the Court with voting power on decisions.

Amendment No. 4.

This amendment, if adopted, will empower the Legislature to increase the amount of old age assistance from $15.00 per month, (as now provided by the Constitution) to $20.00 per month of State funds to be matched by the Federal Government with a like amount, which in effect would be, with both State and Federal money, the pensioner could be paid an amount up to $40.00 per month.

This amendment further provides that a maximum of Thirty Five Million Dollars can be raised by the State for its part in expenditures for the needy aged, the needy blind and needy children under 16 years of age.

HEALTH NOTES

Millions of flies help to cause the illness and death of thousands of children and adults each year in the United States. Hundreds of these casualties may be in the State of Texas this year if residents fail in their responsibility for developing the best possible sanitation measures in the area where they reside. Typhoid fever, summer complaint, and other intestinal diseases can be traced to the common housefly as the carrier of infection.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, speaking in this connection recently said, "Be sure that your windows and doors are tightly screened so that stray flies from a careless neighbor will not endanger your family. Be sure that flies are kept away from food, drink, and utensils used in the preparation of food. Make sure, if you live in rural districts, that outside privy vaults are tightly covered so as not to permit the entrance of flies. Infections from this source can be picked up and spread to human beings through contact with food, drink, and utensils. Keep all garbage covered until collected or buried. Eliminate all breeding places for flies and you will be helping your community in its work of controlling communicable diseases and preventing unnecessary illness."

Dr. Cox said that the State Health Department would furnish upon request a pamphlet outlining safe and practical methods recommended for use in fly control.

ENROUTE HOME WITH "SANTA FE" DIVISION

WITH THE 35TH INFANTRY DIVISION, ASSEMBLY AREA COMMAND, FRANCE—Pfc. Faustino Salinos is enroute home from Europe with the 5-Star "Santa Fe" Division, which in ten months battled across the Elbe River to within 42 miles of Berlin. The 35th ended its occupational duties in Germany during the second week of July and moved to Camp Norfolk, one of the Assembly Area Command's 17 redeployment camps near Reims. Elements of the Division served as Honorary Guards for President Truman when he arrived at Antwerp.

Hitting Omaha Beach July 7, 1944, the 35th forced the Germans from St. Lo, broke the counter-off-fensive at Mortain, swept across France, cracked into Germany's Saar Valley on December 12, and then whipped into Belgium and Luxembourg to wither Von Rundstedt's Ardennes bulge.

Following a shift to the Vosges Mountains, the Division dashed 300 miles north through Holland to jump the Roer and Rhine rivers, crush Siegfried Line defenses, and scoop up more than 30,000 PW's by V-E Day, to mark the end of over 1600 combat miles in the ETO.

Pfc. Salinos is the husband of Mrs. Noemi Salinos of Hondo, Texas. He holds the Combat Infantry Badge, the Purple Heart and four Battle Stars.

GRADUATES AT KEESLER FIELD

KEESLER FIELD, Biloxi, Miss., Aug. 14.—Pvt. Robert M. King, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. King, Hondo, Texas, and husband of Mrs. Adelle King of Hondo, Texas, was graduated this week from the AAF Training Command's basic airplane and engine mechanic's course at Keesler Field. The course extended over a 76-day period, during which time he received instruction and actual experience in aircraft maintenance. This training prepared him for entrance into a specialized course where ground crew students receive instruction in maintenance and trouble shooting on particular types of planes. The training program he followed included, in addition to aircraft maintenance, fundamentals, instruction in airplane electrical systems, structures, fuel and oil systems, propellers, instruments, hydraulic systems, engine operations and basic airplane inspection.

COMPLETES TOUR OF DUTY

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS—Having completed a tour of duty of 9 months in the European Theater of Operations, Pvt. Marion H. Tschirhart of Castroville, Texas, has arrived at the San Antonio District, AAF Personnel Distribution Command for processing and reassignment. His awards for service overseas include the ETO ribbon with one battle star.

J. G. BARRY REACHES MAJORITY

SAN MARCOS ARMY AIR FIELD, August 15 (Spl)—Major James G. Barry, well-known in Texas educational and athletic circles, was promoted to his new rank from that of captain early this week. Major Barry is assigned as Personnel Services officer at this AAF Training Command navigation school.

Born in Campbell and raised in Smithville, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Barry of Smithville.

Holder of degrees in mathematics, education and Spanish from Baylor and Texas Universities, Major Barry left a position as superintendent of schools and athletic coach at Hondo, Texas, in August of 1942 to enter the army. He has served at San Marcos since early in 1943. In 1939, while coaching the high school baseball team, he was named outstanding Texas high school baseball coach of the year.

His duties at SMAAF include planning and arranging recreational and morale building activities for post personnel, and managing the post baseball team, currently occupying fourth place in the Central Texas Service League standings.

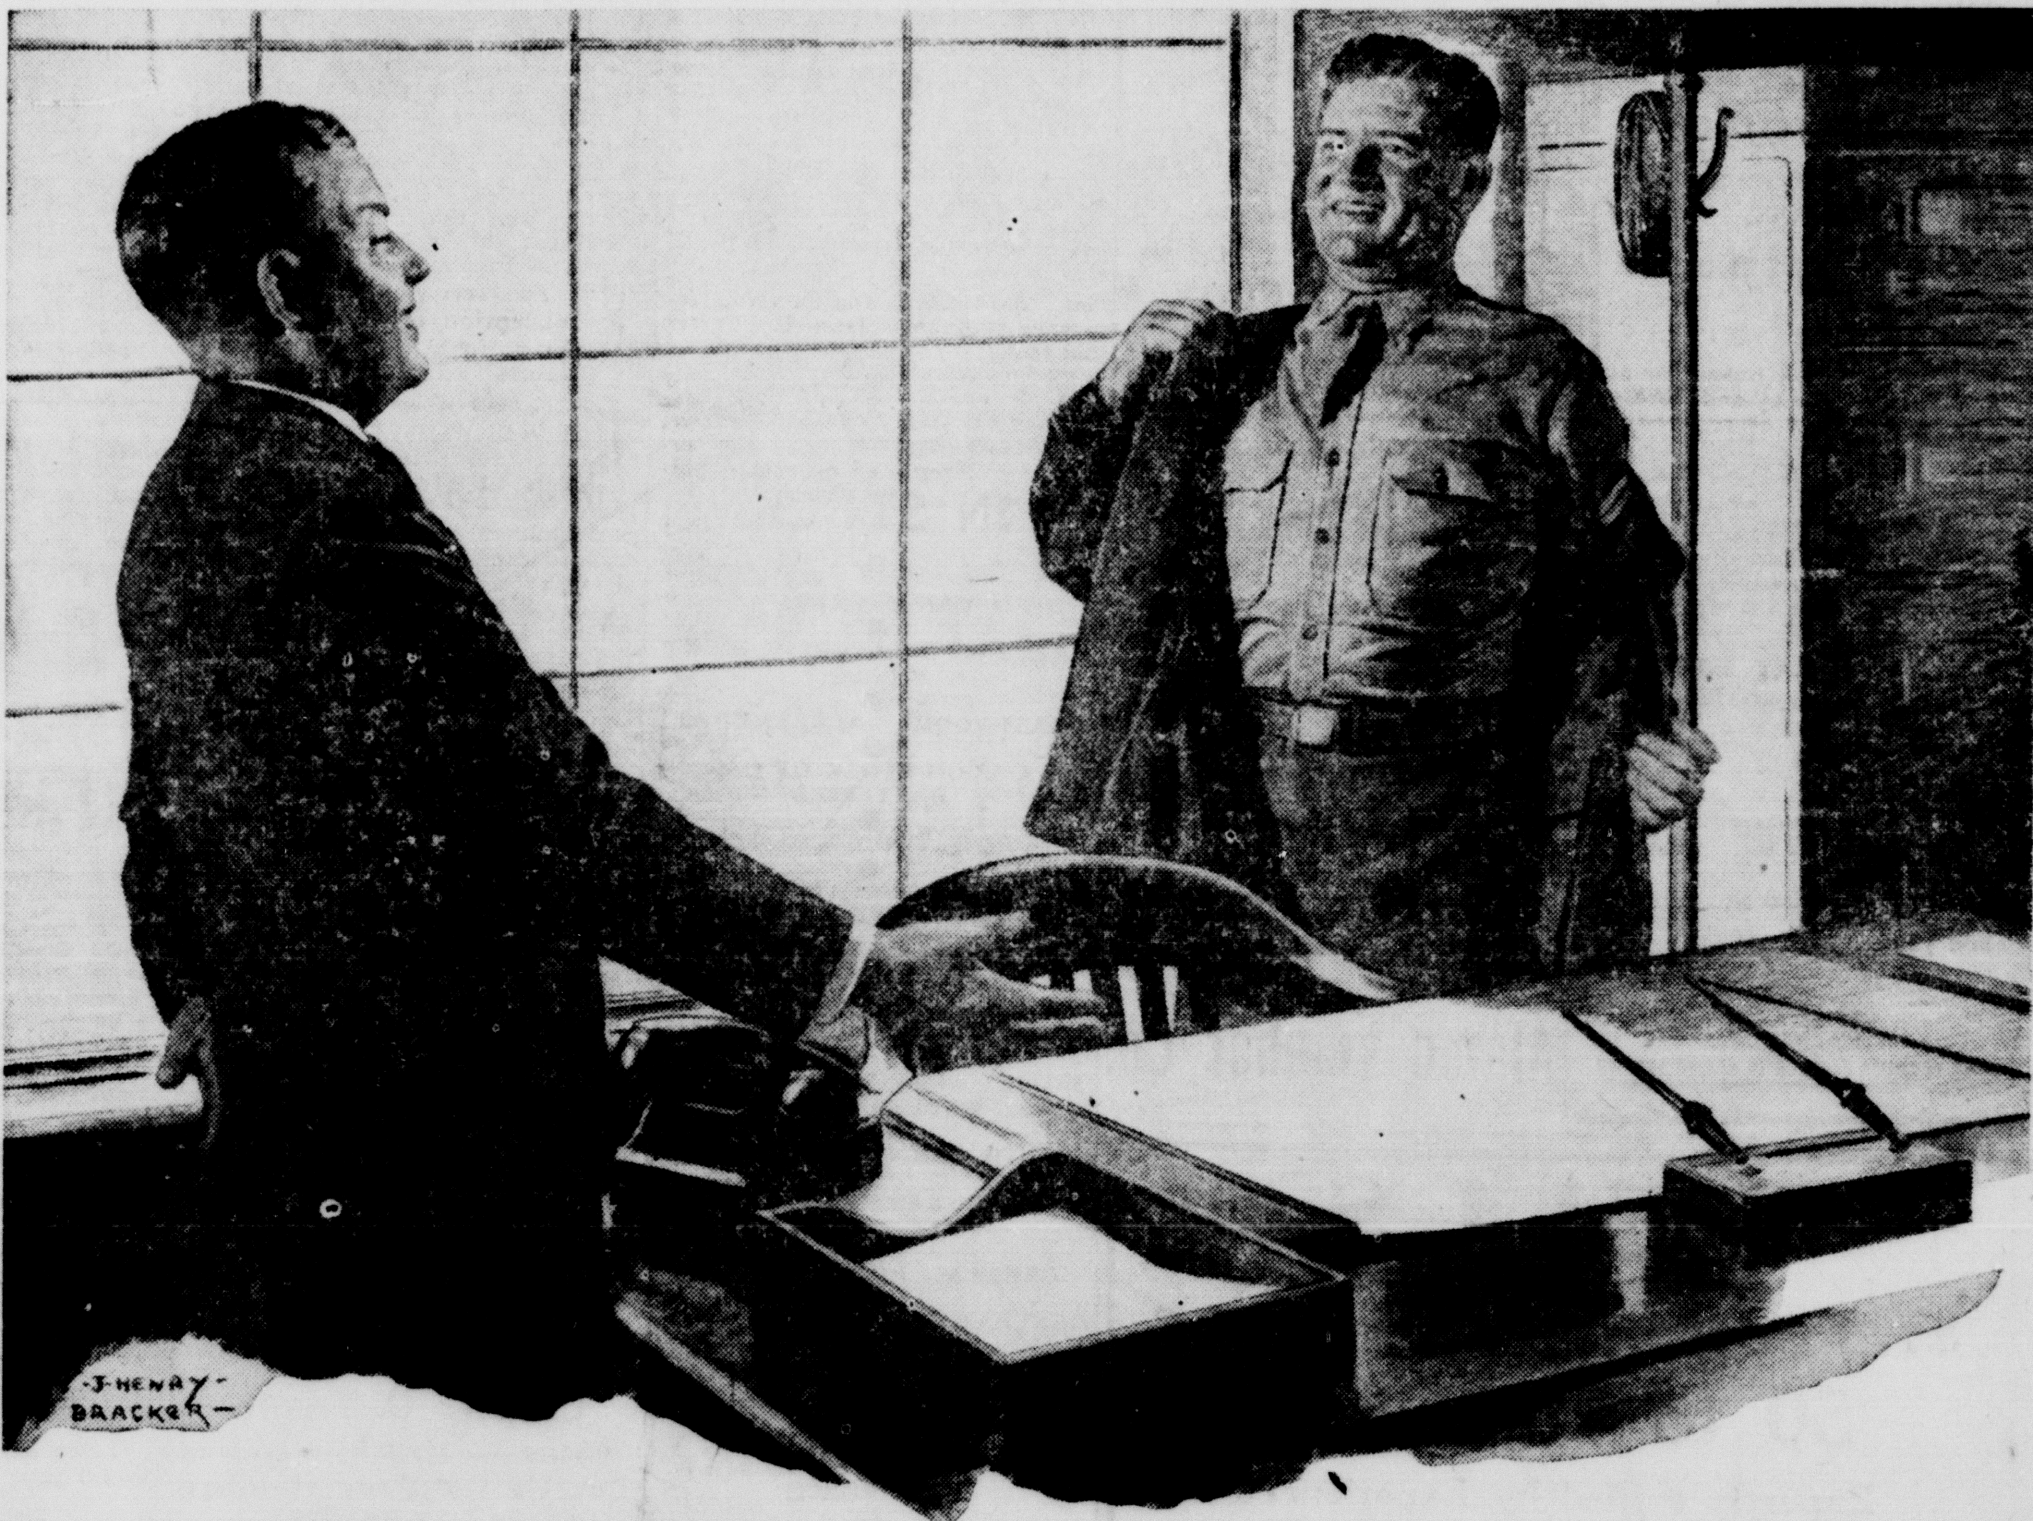

Major and Mrs. Barry now live in San Marcos with their children, Maybeth, 16, and Jimmy, 13.

DEVINE YOUTH KILLED

Eugene Oppelt, 12, of Devine, who was accidentally shot in the head by a companion while hunting frogs near Devine Wednesday, died Sunday afternoon, August 19, 1945, in the Santa Rosa Hospital in San Antonio. Funeral services and interment for the youth were held Wednesday in Castroville.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Oppelt, Devine; four brothers, Milton and Willie Oppelt, serving in the army, and James and Albert Oppelt, Devine, and three sisters, Virginia and Laura Oppelt, San Antonio, and Caroline Oppelt, California.

The Comets are scheduled to meet a strong Ellington Field eleven on the Hondo high school gridiron at 8 p. m. September 15. Tickets will go on sale at the field and in Hondo one week before the game.

HAAF NEWS BRIEFS

Tommy Tucker's orchestra will play for a dance at the Officers' club Friday, Sept. 7. Reservations are being made for the semi-formal affair this week. This is not a dinner-dance.

Enlisted men and women with the proper qualifications are being given an opportunity to make applications for commissions as clinical psychologists in the AAF.

New WAC squadron commander at Hondo Field is Lt. Ethlyn Knight. She replaces Capt. Ione Severson, recently transferred.

Lt. Bob Bush, billeting officer, is organizing a Hondo swimming team to compete with other area AAF teams in swim tournaments coming up shortly. Interested swimmers are urged to contact Lt. Bush at phone 251 or 350.

After the initial flurry and excitement occasioned by the capitulation of Japan, the Hondo Army Air Field training program returned to an even keel. The cruise control curriculum returned to a normal seven-week schedule, following several weeks of stepped-up five-week training periods. Nothing official has been published yet in reference to the point-system for discharge, nor how quickly men with sufficient points will be mustered out of the service at HAAF.

Ellington Field, Texas, gridiron victim in two games against the Hondo Comets in 1944, are gunning for the Comets' hide in the coming Sept. 15 game at Hondo. Advance word from the Ellington camp lists 60 men out for practice, almost half of whom are ex-college performers.

Cpl. Stan Alberchinski, 1944 Hondo Field blocking back, has resigned from the grid squad. Said Alberchinski, "I'm not up to it, this year." Hefty tackle John Rabold, 265-pounder, will be laid up for 30 days as the result of a baseball injury.

The post photo lab has received letters from Capt. Les Bland, former Hondo photo lab chief, from his new base on Okinawa.

HONDO OFFICERS KILLED

Two Hondo Field officers were killed Aug. 16 when the motorcycle which they were riding collided with a car six miles south of San Marcos, Texas.

Instantly killed was Lt. Hudson D. McElroy Jr., of Hartselle, Ala. Lt. John E. Watkins, Jr., of Dallas, Texas, later died of injuries.

Both officers were pilots.

COL. HANS C. ADAMSON, AC, RETIRES

Colonel Hans C. Adamson, Chief of the Office of Personnel Narratives of the Army Air Forces, has been placed on inactive status by an Army Retiring Board at Walter Reed General Hospital, it was announced today by the War Department.

After completion of his terminal leave December 15 he will return, if his health permits, to his former position with the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.

Colonel Adamson has been in charge of collecting and writing personnel and human interest data for the AAF throughout the world. He suffered permanent disabilities when he crashed in an Army bomber with Captain Eddie Rickenbacker in the South Pacific October 21, 1942. Colonel Adamson, Captain Rickenbacker and five others were rescued after drifting 24 days aboard rafts.

SNAPPY FACTS

about
RUBBER

1,417,000 airplane tires were built in 1944—733% more than were produced in 1941.

Carbon black is a pigment which, when mixed with rubber, reinforces the molecules of rubber—similar to the way slag or pebbles are used in reinforcing concrete. It is the third most important material that goes into a tire.

Shortages of carbon black, textiles and wire are largely responsible for the present critical shortage of tires. Over 125 feet of steel wire are used in the construction of an average-size passenger car tire.

Red Raskall

By CLARK McMEEKIN

W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lark Shannon, whose horse, Madoc, was sold to clear a debt when her father died, sails from England for America. David North, whom she loves, was to make the trip with her, but sails the night before. Lark's ship goes down, but she reaches land and Galt Withe, a bound servant, rescues her. The two manage to hobble Lancer, a fine horse, that had escaped from the sinking ship. Lark finds herself a prisoner at the inn, run by Cony and Mag, who plan to hold her for ransom to David North's firm. She tries to run away but Cony catches her and she is locked in the attic. She escapes again and is happy to find that her pursuer is David. She falls into his arms.

CHAPTER X

"And that's why you masqueraded as one of the gipsy band and sailed on the Runnymede? Suppose he finds you out?"

"I'm not supposing that," David said, "when I'm this far along. If I can get a copy of his log-book and accounts that will stand up in a law court and win the case for us—"

"It was Galt that found me on the island, David, and saved me. We captured Lancer and hid him safely there."

"Lancer?"

"He's a horse that was on the Tempora, a dream horse. Red Raskall, we call him. He belongs to Squire Jarrod Terraine of Greatways Plantation."

"He's the horse that they've offered a reward for?"

"Ssh!" David's arm tightened about her shoulders as a figure grew discernible through the night and crept toward them, stopping every step or so to listen and peer forward into the dark.

As the moon came out from behind a cloud David stood up, pushed Lark back into the deeper shadow, and drew his dagger from its sheath.

After a moment Lark's tight-drawn breath eased and fluttered.

"It's Galt," she told David, and called the name softly.

He came to them. "I feared you'd get lost, Lark, or scared."

"I was scared, till David came. I thought a parson lived in the manse."

Galt nodded. "Like a fool, I never thought till you'd gone that you mightn't know the folks here never could get another parson, after—"

"You sent David to me," Lark said warmly. "You helped so much, Galt."

"I'd a sent anybody I thought could help you," he said shortly. "Bein' I had no chance just then to go with you. No need my stayin', now."

"Wait, Withe," David said. "You've served us well. We can still use you."

Sensing his hurt, Lark said, "Galt, you've been so good. I can't thank—"

"I wonder," David broke in impatiently, "if you'll get Lark to Norfolk for me? I'll naturally be glad to make it worth your while."

"You don't aim to take her there, yourself?" Galt asked blankly.

"David has to get Matson's records," Lark said in quick defense. "He'll meet us in Norfolk. . . . If you and I could get the Raskall some way—"

"Cony's yawl is tied at the Horn-town jetty for caulking," Galt said thoughtfully. "We might could use it and leave it tied down-coast somewhere."

"I'll care for Lark," Galt turned his back on David. "If we're goin', let's go while we can. You get your papers. I'll see after Lark."

"Thanks, lad," David was impervious to Galt's surliness. "I'll follow down-coast as soon as I can. You are responsible for Lark. . . . Lark, tell Mistress Mara Hastings that I sent you to her, that you are my little friend and neighbor whom I've spoken of so often."

They stood together for a moment, not saying anything. And then a sound came to them, a baying far off, that sounded at first like the cry of a wolf, and then changed, as it came nearer, to a more familiar, but equally horrible note. The bell-like bay of Old Dog. There could be no doubt of it.

Lark and even Galt shuddered as David stepped in front of them, drawing out his pistol. "Silence," he said, quietly. "Keep back there in the bushes, you two!"

For a moment, beyond the church where they had climbed the low stone wall from the parsonage, Old Dog lost the trail, but almost immediately he picked it up again and came directly at them, his thunderous snarling enough to wake the sleeping dead in the small adjacent cemetery.

David took his stance and waited. Almost, he waited too long. Lark cried out to him in terror, and at the same instant, his shot rang out and the huge hound leaped convulsively in the air, and rolled over, dead.

David said, "It's all right, Lark. Don't cry, darling!"

"Quick, Galt, let's go," Lark kissed David once more and started across the church yard with Galt following her. Before they reached the highroad, it began to drizzle. They settled into a long steady pace. Galt began to talk now. He said more words than Lark had ever heard from him. She knew he was trying to comfort her and distract her.

"You talk like a poet, Galt," Lark said. "You've almost forgot your Guinea speech. When you have been telling me all these things, you've been speaking as your father must have spoken."

"I've been alone so long with Guinea folk," he said, "I've most forgot the proper words I used to know. Knowing you has changed me, Lark. Your belief in me has changed me from a low-down boy into a man. Though 'round here you oughtn't to trust nobody fast as you trusted me."

In the dawning light she could see the quick grateful smile that he gave her. They were nearing the town now. Galt pointed out the Shepherd's Inn at the cross-roads ahead and the half-finished Welbourne Mansion with its arched loggia and fine pointed roof. The sleeping town lay around them.

Galt skirted it and led Lark directly to the deserted jetty. Here she noticed a copy of the handbill for Lancer posted and, in spite of Galt's urgency, stopped for a moment to read it.

"Suppose Lancer isn't there," Lark said, watching Galt at his slow business of unfurling the sail. "Suppose somebody else has already found the Raskall on Ghost Island?" Her voice was apprehensive.

"He'll be there right enough," Galt said comfortingly. "I don't doubt that. I saw him there only

Galt dropped the helm and swung for him.

yesterday afternoon. I ain't worried about him one little bit."

"I wish David could have come with us, Galt, that we could all three have gotten away together."

Galt said, "Wind's shifted now, it's right hard to pick her up and push beyond the tide."

"Galt, don't you wish David was with us? Wouldn't you feel less anxious about him, if he already had those papers?" Her voice was pleading with him for some assurance.

Galt let go the helm, suddenly angry and thoughtless. He took a step toward Lark. "He's your man," he said, "ain't he? Take those blue beads of mine off from about your neck!"

"Why, Galt! I love my blue beads. I treasure them!" She put her hand to her neck where they were hidden under her dress. "Were they your mother's?"

"And my grandma's, before that."

"I've never seen any like them," Lark said, "the curious little gold clasp . . ."

"They ain't worth much," he said, "no more'n I am."

She slipped them off over her head and held them in her cupped palm, admiring them. "They're beautiful," she said, "the most beautiful things I've ever had." She laid her hand on his arm.

He looked at her long and thoughtfully. "I know David North's your man," he said humbly, "but I'd like mighty much to kiss you, Lark Shannon."

As she leaned toward him there was a slight movement under the pile of tarpaulin in the stern of the boat. Their frightened eyes saw it.

Lark whispered, "Galt! It moved. I saw it. Somebody's there!"

Galt said, "Steady now!" and with a quick step leaned over and gave the tarpaulin a sudden jerk.

Cony was lying there. His face was mean and mischievous. He was shaking with laughter. His great red mouth stretched wide in vindictive glee.

"I caught uns," he said, rising to his feet. "I caught un clean, sweetmeat, for sure I did!"

Galt lunged for Cony, but one tug of Cony's apelike arms jerked the tarpaulin from under his feet, throwing Galt backwards to the center-board of the yawl. Cony was on him, then, pistol in hand, kicking his head, his shoulders.

"Get un to the tiller, an' head over for the Inn Cove, e'er I blast un through the guts. . . . Stay un back, sweetmeat. . . . Un be great runaways, un two!"

Lark said, wildly, "Galt's been bound to you for six years, Cony! You know that's too long for indentured service. And you certainly know you've no right of any kind to hold me! Haven't you got any decency?"

Cony kicked Galt again, and, dazedly, Galt got to his feet, stumbled toward the stern, took the tiller and righted the course of the boat.

Once or twice, in the short and miserable trip to the Inn Cove, Galt tried to veer the course of the yawl out to sea, and each time Cony threatened and cursed him. To Lark's surprise, he tried it again, and this time Cony pulled himself up and walked to Galt and kicked him viciously.

And then Lark realized that he wanted to draw Cony to him, because he stood taut until Cony drew back his heavy foot for another kick and then Galt dropped the helm and swung for him, knocking the pistol out of his hand, across the boat, and into the water. The boat dipped and bobbed wildly, and Lark dodged the flying boom, her heart pushing into her throat as Galt and Cony went down, rolling and struggling, into the bottom of the boat.

Once the sail fouled them, and Cony got his great unnaturally long arms around Galt in a hideous bearlike embrace, forcing the younger man back and back until his very spine-bone was bowed to the breaking point. Lark flew at Cony, trying to pull him away, beating at him with her fists, tearing at him. She could see Galt's face contorted with agony, could feel and hear the pull and protest of muscle on muscle, the ominous cracking sound that might mean Galt's back was gone—

Then, somehow, Galt was doubling over, fling Cony up and over his head with a tremendous, terrifying effort. Cony struck the deck full force, turned, tried to get up, was met by Galt, Galt throwing himself on him, beating him, hammering his fists into Cony's face, straddling him, pinning the big form down, beating his chest, his head, his face, beating and beating him as if he couldn't stop, as if all the hate of years was unloosed and couldn't be glutted.

Galt caught the single-mast, reeled, and righted himself.

"I beat him," he said stupidly to Lark. "I got the best o' Cony. I never thought to do that. But I got the best o' Cony."

"I'm glad," Lark said fiercely. "But you wouldn't want—"

She stopped, suddenly aware of the nearness of the shore, of people staring, calling out to them. The yawl had been circling derelict in the wash of the tide. It was close in now, kept off shore only by the push of the river current. Sailors from the Runny, gipsies, and the big Negro men who had poled the barge last night lined docks and platforms.

Lark saw Mag there, wringing her hands, shrieking and moaning. Some sailors were putting out a davy boat, rowing toward the yawl with swift sure strokes. They grinned up at Lark.

"The bound lad won, did he?" one of them shouted.

Then they were boarding, reaching for the big landing paddle, bringing the yawl in with expert neatness, settling her in her accustomed berth, talking about the fight, laughing, winking at Lark, looking scornfully at the whimpering Cony.

In the group along the platforms Lark saw the black-clad figure of Matson. He stood there, looking amused and a little out of place with his graceful cape and exaggerated sweep of pheasant feather in his wide-brimmed felt hat.

"I'll kill un, Galt!" Mag pushed forward, trying to clamber into the boat. "I'll kill un for this!"

The sailors pushed her aside rudely, laughing. One of them said, "What's boiled you up, Mag? Cony be all right. He be just blubberin'. Never know you to set such store by him."

Cony raised his head, saw the circle of grinning faces, and began to groan heavily. Galt still stood there holding the mast. Lark stooped and tore a square from her petticoat, mopping the blood from his face. One of the sailors lifted her, then, to the platform flat. Mag glared at her malevolently.

"Give un a beatin' right, didn't he, un Cony?" A thick-featured sailor asked, guffawing.

"Drew—drew a knife on me," Cony gasped as if he were dying of a mortal wound, "the dirty sneak! He crept up on me and sought to murder me. I'll kill him, I'll lash e'er piece o' skin from his back. I'll beat him to death, by God, the dirty murderer."

Lark felt the sick cold fury well up unbearably in her.

"Galt didn't try to kill him," she said steadily. "He didn't draw a knife on him or creep up on him. Cony had a pistol pointed in Galt's face. He kicked him—I can show you the bruises, and Galt only did what any man here would have done. He tried to take care of himself—with his fists. If there was any unfairness, it was Cony's."

"Tried to cheat me by runnin' away from four years o' service." Cony's strength was returning, now that he was protected. "Tried to kill me. Let me get at him!"

Unit Shelves Easy to Build to Fit Almost Any Space in Your Home

By Ruth Wyeth Spears

WHETHER you have a house of your own or whether you move often, unit book shelves are the answer to many a problem. They may be scaled to fit almost any space; you may add to them as needed and they may be shifted from one place to another according to your mood. They may start in the living room and end in the children's room or in the kitchen. The units may be divided, multiplied or used in various combinations.

You need no special skill to make the three units shown. These well proportioned shelves were designed especially for amateur homecrafters to make with the simplest tools. A compass saw will cut the curved shelves of the end units. Because the shelves were designed by a home-maker a simple method of constructing them with no open dust space at the bottom was worked out and special thought was given to the width and depth of shelves so that they would have the maximum usefulness and still be made of stock sizes of lumber.

NOTE—Pattern 270 gives a full size pattern for the curved shelves of these book cases and large diagrams with dimensions of all the straight pieces. Also a complete list of materials required and illustration of directions for each step in the construction of the units. To get this pattern enclose 15 cents with name and address and send direct to:

What are the two most important words we have learned in this war?

NOT long ago, Russian armies were lined up on the Oder, facing desperate Nazi resistance before Berlin. On the 14th of February, nearly 4,000 bombers and fighters, part British, part American, flew to that vital sector and smashed at enemy strong points and concentrations. Some planes actually unloaded their bombs only 12 miles in front of the Russian spearhead!

That was Combined Operations.

In Burma, a British Admiral led tough U. S. Rangers, Tommies from all parts of the Empire, Indian Gurkhas and Sikhs, Chinese foot soldiers, carrying weapons made in Bridgeport. All wore different uniforms. But all shared in their hearts a single determination—to destroy the arch-destroyers, to conquer the common enemy.

That is Combined Operations—two words that affect the future of mankind.

We have learned the lesson that to win this war we had to fight side by side with our allies, regardless of race, religion or politics.

And now, with durable peace within our grasp, we cannot abandon that lesson. Unity, efficiency, fellowship, international cooperation must be continued.

Every American citizen, every man and woman in the nation, has a definite contribution to make toward seeing that a permanent international body to maintain peace be made a going concern.

We must add our strength to the surging movement toward unity among all men of good-will in every part of the globe. We must pledge our unwavering support to that movement, give our statesmen and legislators the support they need to make it effective. We must determine to make the necessary start, even though the first step is not as altogether perfect as we might wish.

Will you play your part in this greatest of all Combined Operations? Will you take your place in the ranks with your fellow men in the striving toward permanent peace?

First, get and keep yourself informed about the specific proposals for peace and international cooperation which are now before us. Read and listen to the discussions of them. Ask your Public Library for material on them.

Second, interest your friends in these questions. Get them discussed in any social, labor, business, religious or other groups to which you belong.

Third, say what you think—for or against—in writing, to your Congressman and Senators, to your newspaper. Declare yourself. Speak up.

Work today for peace, that your children may live tomorrow.

ATTLEE'S GOVERNMENT—
WEAK WORLD POWER

WASHINGTON. — The limehouse slums representative in parliament rules Britain and the Empire.

Its man, Clement Attlee, won control on a platform against free enterprise, and in favor of the government taking over fuel and power, inland transport, iron and steel manufacturing and the Bank of England. The world effects of Britain's electoral revolution are being confusingly forecast. Continuance of the Churchill international policies, for instance, has been promised, yet the Attlee labor party campaigned in favor of closer collaboration with Russia than Churchill could provide.

Clement Attlee

Similarly, the ensuing fear of the Socialist program throughout the world has prompted mollifying suggestions that the program will be long in enactment, if ever attained, although strangely the sincerity of its devotees is not questioned. From such circumstances, anything but confusion in forecasts would be difficult to find. To gauge accurately the extent of the electoral revolution, it will be necessary to await Attlee's steps. Statements issued since the election can safely be discounted as inspired for political effect. Only in definite action can uncertainty be dispelled.

My information suggests the commonly published guesses are more logical than sound. The only justifiable conclusion yet apparent is that Britain has weakened herself as a world power. A more accurate way to put it is that she has publicly proclaimed her existing weakness. Her money was gravely shocked by the war. Without the Bretton Woods agreement it might not now have its depreciated stability. Her war effort had to be materially sustained largely from the outside (by us, Canada and Australia), she was able to sustain herself only psychologically. Her navy, which ruled the world for several generations, is now a fraction of ours (one-fifth to one-eighth, whereas it was equal at the start of the war). Her army is a minor world entity as armies go in size and equipment these days.

British Foreign Trade.

Her foreign trade, which furnished the only economic reason for her world position, has become a matter for her gravest post-war concern. The Bretton Woods agreement was designed to help restore it, but we have most of the ships on the seas and the manufacturing capacity, while Russia has great raw materials and industrial ambitions.

The election is likely to lead to a further culmination of these too-glorious conditions. Mr. Churchill, as a world figure, was able to maintain a facial front above them, to cover them while he extemporized. This will be much more difficult for Mr. Attlee, especially in view of his platform.

His platform, for instance, does not advocate more coal production, more power, sounder money or finance by the Bank of England, greater or better iron and steel and inland transport. It proposes that his labor party use the people's money to buy these enterprises and operate them, not to make them bigger and better, but to give his party followers a greater share of the profits of operation, in short, higher wages.

Most American officials expect Russia to fail on national wealth. The common fears popular in this country, that Russia will overrun Europe and Asia and eventually relegate us to a second-class power, are not shared by many of our government men in the know. They do not believe Russia can get production, although she is in a better position to get it than a Socialist Britain, as she has the power of compulsion over her workers.

Russia never got enough production on anything to compete with anyone before the war. Not until Nazi invasion brought her unity did her production become satisfactory, and even then her backward mechanical methods prevented her from getting the full measure of effort from her limitless manpower. It was numbers, not materials, which saved Russia, as any military man will tell you.

The United States then occupies the best position economically in this new world of material production as the only wealth.

NO DUKE CHURCHILL

When Winston Churchill turned down a knighthood this week, his son, Randolph Churchill, probably heaved a big sigh of relief.

For it meant that his father, in turning down this lesser honor, probably would not accept a dukedom or any other high reward. Should the elder Churchill accept a peerage, he would move into the House of Lords, which would mean that his son, Randolph, upon his father's death, automatically would become a lord, thereby forfeiting the chance of a fighting political career as a commoner.

To inherit a title is the last thing young Churchill wants. His future career lies in the House of Commons, like his father.

Knowing his son's ambition, the prime minister used to hold a sword of Damocles over Randolph's head. When the mercurial Randolph got out of hand, his father half-jokingly would warn: "Tut, tut. Be careful or I'll take a peerage."

BATTLE OVER STEEL

One of the hottest fights in the whole hot history of the War Production board has been raging backstage regarding the future allocation of steel to industry.

It is a fight affecting almost every business in the country — large and small — and if the big industry boys get their way, civilian manufacturers will get less material even than during the third quarter of this year, when we were still fighting a two-front war.

The fight is over how sheet steel shall be allocated.

Basically, this boils down to whether the big automobile companies will get it all, or whether other manufacturers will be given at least a little.

It is exactly the same fight, in reverse, which occurred before Pearl Harbor. At that time, the automobile industry was using up most of the sheet steel. War production was held up until their output could be curtailed, and the auto boys pulled all sorts of wires to keep on producing cars.

Now, the same wires are being pulled to let steel be completely free, and not allocated to anyone. This is just another way of saying that the automobile companies will get it all, because they are the biggest peacetime buyers of steel and the steel companies naturally like to please their best customers.

Big Business WPB

Today, the War Production board, under chairman "Cap" Krug, is more big-business — controlled than ever, so the automobile boys may get their way.

Their fight inside WPB is being led by Vice Chairman Harold Boeschstein, whose glass company sells headlights to auto manufacturers. He and other WPB moguls argue that the present "controlled materials plan" should be "open-ended," in other words, after a steel mill has completed its "must" government orders, it can sell whatever steel is left over to anyone it wishes.

Hitherto, farm machinery, hardware, the railroads and various war-supporting industries got definite steel allocations from the government. They were always assured some steel. Under the new proposal, however, they would have to scramble for it in competition with the automobile companies.

While the railroads, farm implement companies, et al, doubtless can look after themselves, a long list of small manufacturers also would be affected — those making hardware, electric irons, washing machines, etc. Hitherto, they have been able to get a certain amount of steel allocated to them by WPB. But under the proposed new plan, they would have to scramble for it. And in any battle with the auto companies, it is not difficult to guess where they would come out.

Actually there will be very little steel to scramble for. After war needs and war-supporting needs are met, it is estimated only about 1,000,000 tons of sheet steel will be left over. If WPB moguls have their way, however, the scramble will begin in the fourth quarter of this year.

NOTE—It will be up to new War Mobilizer John Snyder to make the final decision.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Every mother's son west of the Mississippi river — and some east — are making moves to get the cabinet job of the toughest, most fearless member of the FDR cabinet—Harold Ickes. Jim Patton of Denver, head of the farmers union, is one of them. Another is Gen. Gov. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, who led the switching of delegates to Truman during the Chicago convention. However, "Harold the Ick" may fool 'em.

Nation's Children Mystify
Elders With Phony Latin

To mystify their elders, nearly half of the school children in the United States speak Pig Latin or some other jargon in imitation of Latin, the more popular being Opish, Tutahash, Turkey Irish and Double Dutch, says Collier's.

Although their words are formed by merely transposing letters and/or adding syllables, these languages seem very different. For example, car is arcaray in Pig Latin, coparop in Opish, cusarur in Tutahash, cabar in Turkey Irish and casharug in Double Dutch.

THE SHELTON TREE

In the purple twilight's soothing balm
When the sleepy evening sinks to rest—
In this mellow, softening, silent calm,
Some fond reflections rule the breast.
At such an hour, when young love dreamed,
We stood beneath the Shelton Tree;
I felt your heart beat, but it seemed,
That mine beat faster far in me.

We watched the dying of the day;
We saw the shadow melt the light
And all the splendor fade away;
And we were listless of the sight:
For there, in sweetheart's Fairyland
We felt our young life's golden dream,
Would glide along in cadence bland,
Like dancing ripples on the stream.

But I know, our dreams will live again
And through the whispering lips of Night;
I feel the power that rules the Main
Will give us back our lost delight:
Some day, I'll climb the Silver Hill,
And forever more you'll be with me.

Our lives will then be sweeter still,
Than our trust, beneath the SHELTON TREE.
THOMAS DOUDIEN.

BALM

This vial that once emitted sweet perfume
Is now a hinge on memory's swing door;
That opens wide when purple lilacs bloom
Revealing all that ever was before;
A mile-stone marking all that has been since;
A scented magic carpet, too, is spread
Back to the day of things that used to be;
This vial once filled with perfume long since fled
Holds ointments of forgiving memory
And there is now no creaking of the door
When April's lilacs add one mile-stone more.

CHILD IN HIS GARDEN

Seedling of life deep planted
In His garden's fertile ground,
Where rains of love fall gently
And hope is born at the sound.
Green shoot growing heavenward
When the pale bud hears His call
And one new blossom opens
To the wonder of it all.
Sweet flower nodding sunward,
Folding back in-petaled grace,
Like a lily of the field,
Standing proud in His embrace,
Tended by His loving care,
Sowing beauty, unaware.

—KAY McLEAN.

MY PLEDGE

I promise not to interfere
In the lives of other men,
To be honest and sincere,
And to do what good I can,
But if an aggressor lives
Who tries to push me around,
I swear by all intrigues
That I shall stand my ground!

—OLIVA M. DIAZ.

PSYCHE-LEAVES

Kind wind, do not blow those petals away,
On the spot where they fell, there let them stay.
For rose-leaves are born for more than perfume,
With evening and stars, I'm told, they assume—
After they meet with the elves eyes to eyes—
The shape and the charm of young butterflies.

—JACK GREENHILL.

HALCYON

Will you love me when
My hair turns to silver,
As now, while youthful love
Burns a pure white flame?

Will you love me, when
Summer changes to winter snow,
Will you love me,
Just the same?

—ALBERT WALTON SPEAKS.

MEETING THE MEAT SHORTAGE

Oh Mother dear
An' did ye hear
The news that's goin' round?
Don't think I cheat—
We're gettin' meat
Not feathered, hooved nor horny crowned.

Ye wisht fer steak—
Now wud ye take
The courage that won't pale
Before the task,
An' bravely ask
Fer steak that's cut from off a whale?

We've horse meat now
And butchers vow
We won't have food enough,
And every frail
Or frisky whale
Is good food, tender cooked or tough.

A steak from whale—
Now if this tale
Too monstrous is for you to take
Don't challenge me,
Fer ye kin see
It must be a whale of a steak.

—BELLE S. MOONEY.

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL

No one but me to remember
The long happy years now past,
When every heart was tuned to love,
Each year sweeter than the last.

And yet we knew the parting
Would some day surely fall,
And hearts would break with sorrow
When wintry winds would call.

And when we heard them calling
At window, roof, and door
Our souls grew sick with longing
For days that came no more.

It came—the sad, sad message—
That fails on every heart,
"Our Hettie has gone home to be Of Heaven a little part."

—SADIE MATHERS MILLER.

FLAMING SUMMER

Summer swept down on the wings of song
Over the fields and maples of gold,
Flaming in crimson and dusty brown
Upon each bush of the tangled world.
She crept along where the fence-rails lay
Strewing grasses upon the wall
While dancing fairies painted the leaves

In a gleaming trail, at Summer's call.
—KAY McCULLOUGH.

BETTER UNDERSTANDING

I tossed my troubles away
Over a steep precipice,
But soon as I faced the valley
I felt my life robbed of peace.
I then walked in solitude,
And my troubles were with me—
So, we reached an understanding
And proceed with harmony.

—OLIVA M. DIAZ.

RENDEZVOUS WITH NIGHT

Beyond the night-lamp's flashing bowl,
The sun will sleep the hours away.
The stars will listen to the soul
And man can tell what the heart should say.
Here, blazing sparks, deftly flung
In a million darts, flecking the night:
Vivid as lightning's splintering tongue,
An intriguing witchery of delight.

The pale-white moon drops down a fold,
(Over which the curving wind-harps sigh),
As he watches from his bath of gold,
Thru flaming torches on the sky.
I would that I could nurse the power
That wraps me in this shimmering white:
Wielding charm in an empty hour,
While I keep rendezvous with night.

—THOMAS DOUDIEN.

MATERIAL

One poet saw it in a tree.
Another sang of love.
While I sing of the things I see Around, and up above.

A poem is most anywhere
When Beauty reigns as queen.
Although sometimes it's in the air
Or sound that isn't seen.

Then pleasant little memories
Relive in words that rime,
Refreshing as a golden breeze
That blows on fleeting time.

—FLOZARI ROCKWOOD.

THE HUSH OF AUTUMN

The purple thistle turns to down
And crimson clover blossoms rise
Where goldenrods, with dusty plumes
Are nodding to the saffron skies.

The maple leaves of red and gold
Sway regally in satin-brown
Above the rusty sheaves of corn
Like jewels for a royal crown.

The air is redolent and sweet
With fragrance; and the Autumn hush
Lies in a gorgeous pageantry
Upon each vine and burning bush.

—KAY McCULLOUGH.

FOR LOVE OF FLAG

When I am called to leave you
Please do not cry, my dear,
Remember, and keep smiling,
And wave the flag for cheer;

Remember I fight for it,
And when I touch its folds
In reverence, I send to you
The love that my heart holds.

—ANNE PENDLETON.

THE UNITED NATIONS DUMBARTON OAKS PROPOSALS FOR THE GENERAL INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION

Chapter numbers refer to the Dumbarton Oaks Proposals, October 7, 1944, State Department Publication 2192.

November 7, 1944. 1506 D.

The Dumbarton Oaks Proposals are recommendations for a general international organization, agreed to by representatives of the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union, and China and published on October 9, 1944.

The purposes of the organization, to be known as The United Nations, would be to maintain peace and security, to promote friendly relations among nations, and to facilitate international co-operation in the solution of economic, social, and humanitarian problems and the promotion of human rights and fundamental freedoms.

Organs
A General Assembly, composed of representatives of all member states, to meet annually or in special sessions.
An Economic and Social Council, operating under the General

Assembly and composed of representatives of eighteen members of the organization, these states to be elected by the General Assembly for three years.

A Security Council, composed of representatives of the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union, China, and eventually France, and six nonpermanent members, elected by the General Assembly for two years; in permanent session.

A Military Staff Committee, operating under the Security Council and composed of the Chiefs of Staff of the permanent members of the Security Council or their representatives, with other states participating when necessary.

An International Court of Justice.
A Secretariat, headed by a Secretary General as chief administrative officer elected by the General Assembly.

To Maintain Peace
The member states would obligate themselves to settle international disputes which threaten peace by negotiations between the parties, by mediation, conciliation, arbitration, or by reference to the International Court of Justice. The Security Council could at any time recommend procedures or methods of adjustment.

If these methods fail the parties would be required to refer the dispute to the Security Council, which would have authority to take diplomatic, economic, or other measures and, if necessary, to employ, with the assistance of the Military Staff Committee, armed forces to maintain or restore international peace. These armed forces, including national air-force contingents, would be provided by the member states by special agreements among themselves and approved by the Security Council.

To Promote General Stability and Welfare

The General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council, assisted by expert Commissions, would consider and recommend solutions of international economic and humanitarian problems, including the promotion of human rights and fundamental freedoms. They would recommend coordination of the policies and activities of specialized international organizations and agencies which may be brought into relationship with the general organization.
